Are you dealing with bushfire damage?

We’re here to help

South Australia’s Family and Business (FaB) Support Program is here to help farmers, farming families and regional businesses in South Australia dealing with the impact of the recent bushfires.

Each mentor in the FaB Support Program is experienced in discussing and addressing the difficult issues that come about as a result of adverse events such as bushfires. Many members of the FaB team have experience in bushfire recovery, or connections in fire affected areas.

The mentors work closely with other service providers such as Rural Financial counselling and local health networks, and can connect people to those services.

They can also help to connect anyone affected with support measures currently available through government, non-government and community organisations and donations.

They provide a free, informal, confidential, independent and understanding approach available for individuals, families or businesses in South Australia who are affected by adverse events, such as the recent bushfire.

Our FaB Support team

FaB Support mentors come from a variety of regional business and agricultural backgrounds.

A team of eight FaB Support mentors are spread across the state. FaB Support mentors are available to meet, listen and, if needed, connect people to appropriate services and programs. This program is provided at no cost, and is funded by the Government of South Australia.
